Not illustrated. 1858 Excerpt: .in the middle ages, it was too often made to pander to an elegant, though somewhat prurient taste, and that in the productions of the best artists, such as Jean Goujon himself. Nudity was sought rather than avoided in the statuettes. The loves of the gQds were the favourite subjects of the bas-reliefs, while Bacchuses and Silenuses, Nymphs and Fauns, were made to sprawl about very gracefully, but not always very decorously, upon ivory tankards and portions of hanaps and wiederkoms. The pingniers, or combmakers, who also made mirrors, soon added to their trade the manufacture of sword and dagger hilts, powder-horns, and knife and spoon handles. Infinite dexterity in the execution of spirited arabesques was constantly lavished upon these costly trifles, specimens of which may be found in every collection of ivory carvings of any importance. Some remarkably pretty objects of this kind, selected with...
